

ABSTRACT

A docking station includes a housing receiving a portable computer. A liquid-filled hollow structure is provided on a portion of the housing. The liquid-filled hollow structure is in thermally conductive relation to the portable computer when the portable 5 computer is docked in the docking station such that heat is transferred from the portable computer to the liquid-filled hollow structure.